AMBASSADOR OF INDIA

भारत का राजदूत, अबू धाबी
سفیر الهند، ابوظہبی

I congratulate ICAI Abu Dhabi Chapter for completing yet another successful year. It gives me great pleasure to note the immense contributions you have made both here as well as back home in India. Indian chartered accountants have played a critical role in the growth and development of the UAE economy and you continue to play a key role in UAE's growth journey. Your contributions are also visible in the rapidly growing India-UAE bilateral economic relationship.

As in the past, ICAI's 35th annual international seminar tackles a very important topic through its theme "InnoVision - Empowering NextGen". As the fourth industrial revolution creates new opportunities for us, enabling us to do more and better, it also brings a new set of challenges as well. It is only through our collective efforts that we can effectively reap the myriad benefits of innovations in technology, artificial intelligence, fintech, healthtech, legaltech etc. The seminar presents an excellent opportunity to discuss and debate the legacy that we will leave for our future generations.

My best wishes to ICAI for a successful event!

I am happy to see the commitment of the Chapter in facilitating the professional development and providing a platform for networking for Indian chartered accountants in Abu Dhabi.

Vice President's message

The vision is crucial for giving direction to the actions to be undertaken. Developing an innovative vision and roadmap for the finance function requires experimentation and iteration. This process is aided by a development plan that considers important considerations such as the future profile and competencies of the financial professionals, the implications of digital and technological developments, and the viewpoint of stakeholders in the industry.

As technology encroaches upon basic accounting functions, continuing professional development and learning are vital for professionals to future proof their careers. Recognizing that Automation, Adaptive Intelligence, Machine Learning, and various emerging technologies are going to play a strong role in the times to come, the fraternity of Chartered Accountants has been quite active in embracing the technological advancements.

The Institute of Chartered Accountants of India (ICAI) has been acutely conscious towards imparting requisite knowledge to its members with an aim to develop their capacities to the maximum.

I am pleased to note that Abu Dhabi Chapter of ICAI is organizing 35th Annual International Seminar on 27th & 28th January 2024 at Abu Dhabi. The Theme of the seminar "InnoVision - Empowering NextGen" aptly signifies that with an innovative vision there is a plethora of opportunities that we can utilize. The seminar shall certainly provide an excellent opportunity to witness the deliberations by eminent and resourceful experts on subject areas of professional and contemporary relevance.

I would like to officially express my gratitude to the whole management team of the ICAI Abu Dhabi Chapter for their unwavering commitment towards the advancement of the profession in the region.

I am sure that the souvenir being released to commemorate the occasion will be extremely useful and beneficial for the participants.

I wish the seminar shall be a grand success.

General Secretary message

Dear Esteemed Members, Partners, and Distinguished Guests,

As we stand on the threshold of our 35th Annual International Seminar, it is with great pleasure and pride that I extend a warm welcome to each one of you. The journey of our chapter has been a remarkable one, filled with moments of learning, collaboration, and innovation. This year, as we gather once again, we embark on a new chapter with a theme that resonates deeply with the essence of progress and transformation - "InnoVision - Empowering NextGen".

"InnoVision" encapsulates the spirit of innovation and the foresight to envision a future that empowers the next generation. It is a testament to our commitment to staying at the forefront of change, constantly adapting and evolving to meet the challenges of a dynamic global landscape. Our seminar this year serves as a platform for us to collectively explore, discuss, and contribute to the discourse on shaping the future.

Our focus is not merely on technological advancements but also on fostering a mindset that encourages creativity, resilience, and ethical decision-making. Through this seminar, we aspire to ignite a spark within each participant, inspiring them to be catalysts for positive change in their respective fields.

In the words of Albert Einstein, "Imagination is more important than knowledge." This sentiment encapsulates the very essence of our theme. In a world that is becoming increasingly interconnected and complex, the ability to envision possibilities and think beyond conventional boundaries is what will set the next generation apart.

I would like to express my heartfelt gratitude to all our stakeholders - our members, sponsors, partners, and distinguished guests - for your unwavering support over the years. Your contributions have played a pivotal role in the success of our chapter, and we are excited to have you join us in this momentous celebration.

Thank you, and I look forward to a successful and enriching 35th Annual International Seminar.

Dear Members,

It is an honor to write the message for the annual ICAI Abu Dhabi Chapter magazine. As I reflect on the progress of this Chapter, I am filled with a sense of pride and pleasure.

As leaders in our community, it's our responsibility to guide our neighborhoods towards a future of innovation and progress. Innovision Ideas for social communities cover a range of initiatives aimed at addressing specific needs and promoting collective progress.

Imagine engaging our youth in exciting projects like urban gardening for sustainable living, establishing local hubs where young minds collaborate and build skills, and implementing smart waste management systems to instill environmental responsibility. Let's also organize inclusive events that celebrate diverse cultures and talents, and use technology for transparent communication in community decision-making. These are just a few examples.

By embracing Innovision in these ways, we ensure that the next generation is well-prepared with the skills, mindset, and resources to thrive in our ever-evolving world.

Thank you.

Overseas Chapter

With immense happiness, I extend my greetings to Abu Dhabi Chapter of ICAI, for organizing 35th Annual Seminar on very apt theme “InnoVision - Empowering NextGen” on January 27th and 28th, 2024.

The theme of the conference reflects the efforts taken by the chapter in encouraging improved practices. Chartered Accountants play a significant role in contributing to the development and I am confident that the deliberations which will be made during the conference will help significantly with the growth of the economy.

The one thing you have that nobody else has is you. Your voice, your mind, your story, your vision. So, write and draw and build and play and dance and live as only you can.

The existence of Dubai Chapter since 1984 talks about the commitment of Chartered Accountant's fraternity in Abu Dhabi and the way chapter has grown over the last few years is exceptional.

I firmly believe that we need to work together, and the skills improved during the conference should encourage teamwork and best practices amongst us.

I extend my warm welcome to all the delegates of the conference, especially those who have travelled from other countries and wish everyone the very best in all their endeavors.

I congratulate the organizing committee under the leadership of Chairman CA. John George and wish them the very best for the great conference and success of this initiative.

Dear Professional Colleagues,

Greetings to you all from the Kuwait Chapter of the Institute of chartered accountants of India.(KCICAI)..

I must compliment the Abu Dhabi chapter for always raising the bar every year (having successfully organized 34 international conferences is a testament to this fact) and this year will be no different for sure. The hardworking and dedicated team is an inspiration to us at the Kuwait chapter. The Chairperson, CA John George and the Vice Chairman CA Krishnan lead from the front while the rest of the committee executes flawlessly. This is the reason Abu Dhabi Chapter is able to organize a large number of quality events every year.

The theme chosen this year "InnoVision - Empowering NextGen" is unique yet very relevant. We are all busy professionals, and many times go about our daily motions which we call "Life". I think it's time we pause, contemplate and reassess our paths. The winners and Heroes of tomorrow will have to be visionaries who are innovative in every sphere of life as AI and robots will take over most of the routine tasks that we as professionals perform daily as part of our jobs. A visionary and innovative mindset cannot be developed overnight, and the earlier we recognize this the more enriching our lives would turn out to be. Kudos to the Abu Dhabi Chapter for a well thought out conference theme.

The exceptional line up of speakers from various fields will ensure that we can all look forward to professionally stimulating, personally enriching and inspiring conference.

Thank you 'Team Abu Dhabi' for the warm invitation and I am joined by my Executive Committee in wishing the conference all success.

A brief intro to Generative AI Chatbots

Recently, a WhatsApp forward caught my eye and set me thinking although it was in a lighter vein! It said, "Artificial intelligence is no match for Natural Stupidity". As soon as ChatGPT was released to public at large in November 2022, any conversation with people, whether social or professional, seems to be incomplete without a reference to AI (Artificial Intelligence).

Generative AI chatbots are a major step forward in conversational AI and ChatGPT was a forerunner as it was the first to be released for public consumption. Currently there are several alternatives to ChatGPT, the most popular being Bing Chat and Google Bard.

As an AI-powered language model, ChatGPT is one of the most advanced natural language processing (NLP) systems in the world. Users can communicate with ChatGPT using everyday language, (multiple languages at that), and receive accurate, relevant responses that feel like they come from a real person.

Another key feature of ChatGPT is its ability to learn and improve over time. As users interact with the system and provide feedback, ChatGPT's algorithms adjust and refine their responses, leading to a more accurate and personalized experience for each user.

Thomas Friedman, an eminent economist puts it succinctly "With AI, everything, everywhere is going to change all at once. It is one of those moments in history when certain new tools, ways of thinking or energy sources are introduced that are such a departure and advance on what existed before that you can't just change one thing, you have to change everything".

Thanks to being in a tech-savvy family, I got on to its bandwagon within days of ChatGPT's launch, initially with a great deal of mistrust and skepticism, but I soon turned a fan. And I must confess that I use it on a daily basis, it is fascinating, intriguing, and unsettling! I have used it for answering trivial questions, creating limericks and poems, writing letters, generating book reviews, analyzing complex theories, summarizing pages of matter to a concise and lucid one-pager, and even writing a book. And I have not even scratched the surface!

Students are tapping into Generative AI tools to write essay assignments from elementary school kids to college graduates, which it does effortlessly and efficiently. Academics are finding that ChatGPT is capable of passing professional exams associated with MBA, the Bar, and the United States Medical Licensing tests. A massive reworking of the educational system seems inevitable.

Professionals (including those in finance) can leverage ChatGPT in various ways to enhance their work and productivity in the areas of Content Generation, Idea Generation and Brainstorming, Programming Help, Learning and Research, Data Analysis, Project Planning, Automated responses to Customer queries, Proofreading and editing and Drafting legal document. However, when using any AI assistant for professional purposes, it's important to review and verify the output, as it might not always be perfect or contextually accurate. Additionally, considering the security and confidentiality of the information being shared is crucial, especially in industries with strict privacy regulations. The fear of an artificial intelligence (AI) takeover, where machines become more intelligent than humans and potentially pose a threat to humanity, is a topic of much debate in the field of technology.

Considering that the timeline for AI advancement is alarmingly short, the world could be a different place if not already! It's high time we joined the Generative AI ride if not already on it!

Impact of IFRS on Corporate Tax in UAE

Overview of Statutory Accounting Framework and Corporate Tax In UAE
The UAE Corporate Tax regime is effective for Financial Years starting on or after 1 June 2023.

The Corporate Tax Law provides that the Taxable Income of each Taxable Person shall be determined separately, based on properly prepared, standalone (unconsolidated) Financial Statements for financial reporting purposes in accordance with the Accounting Standards accepted in the UAE for Corporate Tax purposes.

Ministerial Decision No. 114 of 2023 specifies that the only Accounting Standards accepted in the UAE for Corporate Tax purposes are the International Financial Reporting Standards ("IFRS") and the International Financial Reporting Standard for small and medium-sized entities ("IFRS for SMEs").

By default, taxable Persons shall use IFRS as the Accounting Standards accepted in the UAE for Corporate Tax purposes. Taxable Persons may use IFRS for SMEs if they derive Revenue not exceeding AED 50 million in a Tax Period.

Accounting for Property, Plant and Equipment and its impact of Tax

This paper covers the accounting treatment of Property, Plant and Equipment under IFRS and IFRS for SMEs.

Property, Plant and Equipment (PPE) are defined as tangible assets that are held for use in the production or supply of goods or services, for rental to others, or for administrative purposes; and are expected to be used during more than one period.

There is an accounting policy choice under this section for measurement of PPE. Companies can select either cost model or revaluation model.

Cost Model

Companies selecting cost model must measure the PPE at cost less accumulated depreciation and accumulated impairment.

Depreciation is the systematic allocation of the depreciable amount of an asset over its useful life. Depreciation is based on three important factors: the useful life of the asset, the residual value of the asset and the method of depreciation selected.

An entity shall consider all the following factors in determining the useful life of an asset:

- the expected usage of the asset.
- expected physical wear and tear
- technical or commercial obsolescence
- legal or similar limits on the use of the asset

An entity shall select a depreciation method that reflects the pattern in which it expects to consume the asset's future economic benefits. The possible depreciation methods include the straight-line method, the diminishing balance method and a method based on usage such as the units of production method.

Deductibility of depreciation for Corporate Tax purposes

Expenditure incurred wholly and exclusively for the purposes of the Taxable Person's Business that is not capital in nature shall be deductible in the Tax Period in which it is incurred.

While the cost of PPE are considered as capital expenditure not deductible, the depreciation of the costs of capital assets is a deductible expense for Corporate Tax purposes. Therefore the method selected, estimation of useful life and the residual value impacts the taxable profit and the tax on such profit.

Revaluation Model

Under revaluation model an entity can choose measure an item of PPE whose fair value can be measured reliably at a revalued amount, being its fair value at the date of the revaluation less any subsequent accumulated depreciation and subsequent accumulated impairment losses.

If an asset's carrying amount is increased as a result of a revaluation, the increase shall be recognised in other comprehensive income (OCI) and accumulated in equity under the heading of revaluation surplus. However, the increase shall be recognised in profit or loss to the extent that it reverses a revaluation decrease of the same asset previously recognised in profit or loss.

If an asset's carrying amount is decreased as a result of a revaluation, the decrease shall be recognised in profit or loss. However, the decrease shall be recognised in other comprehensive income (OCI) to the extent of any credit balance existing in the revaluation surplus in respect of that asset. The decrease recognised in other comprehensive income reduces the amount accumulated in equity under the heading of revaluation surplus.

Impact of selection of revaluation model on Corporate tax

The starting point for calculating taxable income is the net profit/loss from the Income Statement. As such, any unrealized gains/losses which are recorded under OCI would not initially be part of the taxable income calculation unless the unrealized gains are added back, or unrealized losses are deducted as part of the tax calculation. The challenge for businesses will be to distinguish between unrealized gains/losses from capital items and unrealized gains/losses from revenue items.

A Taxable Person, other than a Bank or Insurance Provider, that prepares Financial Statements on an Accrual Basis of Accounting, may elect to take into account gains and losses on a realisation basis in relation to either:

- All assets and liabilities that are subject to fair value or impairment accounting under the applicable Accounting Standards; or
- All assets and liabilities held on the capital account at the end of a Tax Period, whilst taking into account any unrealised gain or loss that arises in connection with assets and liabilities held on the revenue account at the end of that period

Timeline for making the election to use the realisation basis

The election for the realisation basis must be made by the Taxable Person during the first Tax Period which practically will be at the time of submitting the first Tax Return. The election to use the realisation basis is irrevocable. However, it may be revoked under exceptional circumstances and pursuant to approval by the FTA.

Innovative technology

Technology moves at a relentlessly fast pace in the modern world. For instance, there are artificial intelligence programs writing poems from scratch and making images from nothing more than a worded prompt. All of this just scratches the surface of what is out there, so we've curated a guide to the most exciting future technologies, listing a few major discoveries below.

Sand batteries

Some Finnish engineers have found a way to turn sand into a giant battery. These engineers piled tons of sand into a steel container. All of this sand is then heated up using wind and solar energy. This heat can then be distributed by a local energy company to provide warmth to buildings in nearby areas. It has a closed heat loop which lets it store energy for long period of time.

Necrobotics

This involves turning dead things into robots. This is a technology being explored at Rice University. A team of researchers turned a dead spider into a robot-like gripper, giving it the ability to pick up other objects. To achieve this, they take a spider and inject it with air. This works because spiders use hydraulics to force Haemolymph fluid (blood) into their limbs, making them extend. Right now this concept is in its infant stages, but it could mean a future where dead animals are used to further science

Artificial neurons on silicon chips

Scientists of University of Bath/PA have found a way to attach artificial neurons onto silicon chips, mimicking the neurons in our nervous system and copying their electrical properties. It provides a robust method to reproduce the electrical properties of real neurons in minute detail. Researchers hope their work could be used in medical implants to treat conditions such as heart failure and Alzheimer's as it requires so little power.

Gene technology

Genomics is an interdisciplinary field of biology that focuses on the understanding and manipulation of DNA and genomes of living organisms. Gene editing is a group of technologies that enables genetic engineering in order to change the DNA and genetic structure of living organisms. Much of the work being done with gene editing is in the field of healthcare. Among the most exciting current projects is the correction of DNA mutations which can lead to serious illnesses such as cancer or heart disease.

Conclusion

In an era defined by rapid advancements, technology consistently underscores its pivotal role in shaping the trajectory of human progress. Its intrinsic ability to foster innovation, enhance connectivity, and address complex challenges reaffirms its indispensable value. Embracing technology judiciously ensures a future where it not only amplifies human potential but also champions inclusivity, sustainability, and collective well-being.

Unleashing the Power of Generative AI: A Paradigm Shift in Innovation

We're standing at a historic crossroads in civilization with the emergence of Generative AI (Gen AI), that is as smart as us, if not more. This groundbreaking technology is poised to revolutionize creativity, much like statistical models transformed data, but at an unprecedented speed.

The influence of AI is reshaping the entire tech landscape, from data centres to consumer apps, with platforms like Hugging Face hosting over 300,000 models, shows the scale of this transformation, ChatGPT currently has 100+ million users, and the website sees nearly 1.5 billion visitors per month, highlighting the rapid integration of AI into daily life. The industry is experiencing explosive growth, with investments exceeding $20 billion since 2020.

Gen AI currently finds itself in the Hype phase - a natural stage for emerging technologies. However, amidst the marvel at AI capabilities, it's crucial for businesses to pivot towards achieving measurable returns on investment. The current hype phase requires a transition from excitement to lasting impact.

In my view, among below success factors, scaling up and keeping it ethical are the game-changers to realise tangible outcomes.

- A well-defined strategy is essential for scaling AI initiatives, emphasizing high-impact use cases and value-driven AI projects. Isolated pilot programs won't suffice; a strategic approach, including platformization and industry-specific training of models, is the need of the hour.
- Responsible approach to ensure the sustainability of the transformation. Business must handle data reliably, ethically, and securely, keeping a firm foothold on ethical and practical grounds.
- The effectiveness of Gen AI solutions relies on high-quality, diverse, and relevant data. Industry-specific models, enriched with domain knowledge, enhance content generation and task performance. The collaboration between IT teams and business users becomes important in fostering a strong data culture.

However, challenges abound in the AI landscape.

- Lack of regulations leaves AI largely unchecked, prompting governments, to propose new frameworks.
- Intellectual property and copyright concerns arise when AI generates novel ideas.
- Accuracy issues, such as AI "hallucinations," spreading misinformation, pose significant risks.
- Ethical concerns and bias are also significant challenges, as AI models can replicate biases present in training data and violate data privacy. Some AI systems operate like black boxes, making decisions that aren't always transparent, especially with rising threats like deepfakes and manipulated media.

Digital natives, accustomed to the internet and mobile era, communicate through online platforms for almost everything. However, the next generation, Gen AI natives, will surpass them, growing up with technology that not only enhances efficiency but also creativity, shall lead to a profound shift in their thinking, work ethics, and social behaviour. Trust in AI will be crucial for Gen AI natives as they enter the workforce. In conclusion, as AI becomes increasingly prevalent and English may emerge as the coding language, requires striking a balance between innovation and ethical development. A responsible approach is necessary to ensure that the substantial short-term and long-term benefits of AI are realized without compromising safety and security in our evolving technological landscape.

Holy Grail of the Future: At a Meaningful Intersection of innovation and vision

As I ready myself to work on a busy morning – an interaction within my mind, occupies me inside out, and fills me with both with anxious overlayers and enthusiastic undertones - the interaction of rapidly evolving landscapes of technology, business and civic systems and what it means for the working world in general and specifically for those of us in finance.

I am more hopeful about the future today than I have ever been. As I consider myself a believer of tomorrow - the tomorrow that shines brighter and holds promises that the best is yet to come – I am tempted to examine the underpinnings of my own thinking.

The principles

If we can deliver technical finesse and reach for functional epitome, without losing sight of the human experience, if we can create most robust predictive models that assign targeted risk scores to client dynamics without losing sight the long term value a relationship brings, if we can celebrate scorecard excellence without losing sight of the overall impact an individual has – then we would have embraced the same enduring principles upon which the most prolific fables of success and significance were built.

Innovation in Finance

All meaningful innovation in finance has had a place of origin in a vision to better things for the sectoral stakeholders. While technology is often seen as the winged horse riding the innovating spirit, but high impact innovation has always had a genesis in lofty visions to quantum leap various paradigms. The right order has always been: vision inspired, strategy led and technology implemented on the market side – while being vision inspired, and advocacy driven on the policy side. Once we are in a firm embrace of that order, then we can decisively dial how much ML, Generative AI and Quantum Computing need to go into execution manifestations.

Accounting, Audit & Tax

Human capital has been and remains the single biggest cornerstone in defining and redefining the practice of accounting, audit, and tax globally. Taking on the future boldly requires finer cues from the past in catalysing our most significant asset to its optimal potential. Ensuring our people are seasoned in solid mathematical skills, scientific reasoning and forensic orientation foundationally, complemented by a zoomed-out perspective from a clause and provision to policy and principle level. Investing adequately in both technical know-how and deep immersion into the functional roots and origins, evolution and current practices across local, regional and global contexts. This can begin to translate into teams and organizations that are truly flat and carry high decisioning efficiency; reducing operational bureaucracy, accelerating growth and helping create melting pots of leadership – where individuals at all levels can operate comfortably with highly subjective and dynamic operating environment with ever evolving

Empowering Decision Making Through "EPM"

Enterprise Performance Management (EPM) is a software system which helps to monitor performance across the enterprise to steer it to ultimate goals of the enterprise by improving business performance.

Information churning through spreadsheets for decision making becomes unmanageable and time consuming when a company grows. That's where EPM solutions can come in. They integrate and analyze information from multiple transactional systems - including ERP systems, e-commerce systems, budgeting and planning solutions, data warehouses, and external data sources. They then use analytical tools and artificial intelligence to identify trends and patterns in the data that allow managers to assess current performance, monitor processes, and optimize decision-making.

It provides users with the tools they need to track, analyze, manage, and report for their business, with a broader perspective that goes beyond daily transactional activities. Without an EPM component, it may be challenging to turn raw ERP data into reporting as well as time consuming. We may have the right forecasts and goals, but we also need to find trends, predict outcomes, and monitor results. It may be critical to know how your business is performing, it's also important to understand the implications that those metrics and trends have on your business. This is where EPM supports you to monitor those trends, connect operational data, such as transaction history, with the business's strategies and goals, with just a click of button command.

In a nutshell, with EPM, we can automate and simplify data analysis. EPM software helps organizations make decisions using "what-if" scenarios based on advanced EPM modeling and analytics. A Manager equipped with EPM can have better control over Budgeting, Planning, and modelling. EPM's capabilities are key in today's rapidly changing and competitive business environment and supporting decision making in real time.
